Blepharoplasty

Blepharoplasty (Eyelid Surgery)

The eyes account for a large part of the expression of the human face. Wrinkles and deep lines as well as puffiness of the lids begin to develop with the passage of time. Exposure to the sun and genetic predisposition are also the contributing factors.

The result can be marked changes in expression causing a tired and/or older appearance. These physical changes can produce anxiety and actual visual impairment.

Blepharoplasty can correct sagging eyelids, pouches beneath the eyes and excess folds around the eyes.

Surgery

Blepharoplasty is a relatively simple procedure performed under local anesthesia. The incision lines for eyelid surgery are done by Dr. Nisha in such a manner that the scars will be well concealed within the natural structure of the eyelid such as the creases of the upper lids and below the lashes of the lower lids, or from the inside surface of the lower eyelid. It involves removal of excess skin and fat on upper and lower eyelids thus creating a smoother, more youthful appearance. Depending upon the scope of the procedure, the operation takes about one hour per pair of eyelids to complete.

Aftercare

After your procedure is completed, a lubricating ointment and cold compresses may be applied to your eyes, and in some cases your eyes may be loosely covered with gauze. Permanent stitches will be removed about five days after surgery. Antibiotics may be continued for several days following these eye surgeries. Sutures are removed within a week. Some swelling and bruising occur but subside in a few days. Contact lenses should not be worn for two weeks or more. Women may be allowed to use eye makeup ten days to two weeks after surgery but are cautioned to cleanse the area thoroughly after each use.
